MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

The twenty-sixth Sunday concert at Steinway Hall last night was well attended and quite a success in were, Miss Jenny Landsmann, contralto, who sang Batti, batti, from "Don Giovanni," and the "Little icant," by Gumbert, which she sang in supert style, and which were encored in the most enthusiastic manner; Leopold De Meyer, the great planist, who played two of his most brilliant compositions in his own peculiarly popular style; Ardavani, the well known baritone, who sang a romanza from the "Ballo" and "Il Balen" with rare effect; the Listemanns, violinist and pianist, and the usual efficient orchestra. took place last night, and was attended by all the members en masse. The programme was very interesting, and the artists were Fred. Steins, the renowned basso; Pattison, one of our leading planists, and the splendid chorus and orchestra of the society. The symphony in C by Schubert opened the concert, and was followed by a spring chorus by the Mannerchor of the Liederkranz. Then came Pattison's sparkling "Polka de Concert," which displayed the brillian qualities of the grand plano to the fullest extent; and after a ladies' chorus the entire singing force of the society, with the orchestra, gave Max Brueh's "Schön Ellen" in an efficient manner. Among those present were President Bürger, Vice Presidents Steins, W. Steinway, A. Weber, Messrs. Henselt, Nembach, Heyne, &c.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE HERALD.

Great | Preparations for the Impeachmen Trial-Ben Butler to Open the Case-Logan to Follow-Bingham to Close the Case-Radical Speculations as to the Result. WASHINGTON, March 28, 1868.

The extension of time authorized by the Senate a its last meeting as a Court of Impeachment for preparations on both sides in view of debarring any President has not been wasted. The Board of Managers on the part of the House of Representatives and the counsel of the accused have alike de-voted their entire energies to the subject before them. It is known that no further extension of time great drama about to be enacted must appear according to programme and act well his part or suffer the disgrace and ridicule of failure. Ben Butler for the past four days has been head over ears in work. So determined has been his industry that during all this time he has positively refused to give audience to his numerous visitors, greatly to their inconvenience. It is now rally known that Ben Butler will lead the van on the part of the prosecution, and as a great deal depends upon the inauguration of the controversy Ben has prepared himself for a speech which will require from four to five hours in the delivery. This choice was made after a consultation of the Board of Managers among themselves, and great ex-pectations are placed upon the opening. If industry as well as fitness for the position will accomplish suc cess Ben will not be found wanting when brought to the test. His speech will be the great event of Monday, and it is believed will constitute the whole o that day's proceedings. It is now understood the examination of witnesses will follow immediately after the opening speech and consume severa days. Some difficulty, however, is anticipated on the additional article presented by Butler in relation to the Presidential speeches. In this article it is understood that an effort will be made to prolong the trial by sending for parties who were mere hearers, which course could be carried on indefinitely. This objection was raised against the Butler article when it was proposed, and after some difficulty, by way of a compromise, the article was reported favor-ably by the Committee of Seven, with the understand-ing that if a disposition was manifested to use it as a drawn. On these terms the article was accepted, and there is no prospect, therefore, of any delay from

After the examination of witnesses General Logan will deliver his speech, which will also consume about five hours. The arguments will, it is thought, require about a week, Mr. Bingham closing the case. The supporters of the measure still look to the final disposition of the question within the coming month.

The subject which gives rise to the largest scope of speculation is as to the result of the trial. In the estimation of those who favor the measure there is but one opinion, and that is that impeachment is certain of success. The reasons given are plausible enough, if the proper and self-interest are to be the only considerations that will be recognized when the last moment arrives and the Senate is called upon to determine by a shade action less that will be recognized when the last moment arrives and the Senate is called upon to determine by a shade action of the United States, be guilty or not guilty of the allegations of which he stands charged by the House of Representatives in the name of themselves and of "all the people," Those who profess an extraordinary amount of information give the names of fourteen radicals who will vote against impeachment, as follows:—Authony, of Rhode Island; Cole, of California; Edmunds, of Vermon; Fessenden, of Maine; Fowler, of Tennessee: Frelinghuysen. of New Jersey; Grimes, of Iowa; Henderson, of Missonri; Norton, of Minnesota; Ross, of Kansas; Sherman, of Ohio; Sherman, of Charles, and Williams, of Oregon. The radicals, in turn, day that there is any probability of at least thirteen of the Senators above named finching. It is the common opinion among the radicals that the present serious impeachment movement has been the safety of their party. They admit that the two failures in their former attempts had operated adversely to their interests. Now with impeachment, as they consider it a foregone conclusion, they look to the securement of all the branches of the government, with the measure the impeachment and the serious impeachment and present of the seat, which will fall to Mr. Casserfy, will send the proper time, the part they shall take in the Prasidential office and the serious proper in the serious of the seat, which will fall to Mr. Casserfy, will serious proper the present incumber of the seat, which will fall to Mr. Casserfy, will be active the part that a METEOROLOGICAL.—There is an old saying that a man is a prophet in his own country. It is equally that when the horizon is obscured with clouds, and people are seen hurrying through the streets with umbrellas in their hands, rain may be streets with umbrellas in their hands, rain may be cocted. Notwithstanding, or, rather, because of the significance of these facts, a knowledge of the range of the barometer and thermometer, with other meteorological observations of a time past, is not entirely without interest. The highest range of the thermometer during the past week was at four and five o'clock A. M. on the 23d instant, 52 degrees, and the lowest at three and four and half-past six A. M. of the 23d, 27 degrees, the week mean being 40 degrees and 25 minutes. The highest range of the barometer was at seven A. M. of the 24d, 20.551, and the lowest at seven A. Old Sol was in excellent humor, and smiled beniguly upon the cosmopolitan congregation that lined the walks and dotted the beautiful lakes of the Park, which are now open to the prows of pleasure boats and imported swans. For several nours the Park was crowded with visitors from all grades of society and all nations of the earth. At the present time the oaks, elms, larch and winter creepers are competing with the green pine, spruce, and arbor vita for precedence, but the general appearance of the Park clearly indicates that spring is stepping closely upon the heels of winter.

John Murphy, of No. 281 Mott street, detected the men in the act of opening the case, and seized hold of them. They resisted, and, finding it necessary to ensure their escape, struck Murphy to the pavement. He called for help, when Mr. Toothaker ran from the store and secured Collins. Kevey ran off, but Murphy pursued and arrested him. Officer Conklin, of the Fourteenth precinct, then came up and took charge of the prisoners. Yesterday morning they were taken before Justice Hogan and committed to the Tombs for trial. ALLEGED VIOLATION OF THE HOTEL ACT .- Stephen

Mr. Adams not making his appearance at the hotel Mr. Halliday became suspicious and wrote to him. A reply was received on Saturday, and in his letter Mr. Adams denies ever having given Chamberlain any authority to engage a room or board on his account, and that the letter upon the strength of which Chamberlain obtained a room and board from Mr Halliday was bogus. The latter thereupon demanded his bill ($73 50) from Chamberlain, but seemed to be both unable and unwilling to pay it. The accused was committed to the Tombs for trial before the Court of General Sessions.

The house was unoccupied and the thieves had packed up a quantity of articles, which evidently they had been unable to take with them. Thinking they might return for these, he procured the services of officer Nelson, of the Nineteenth precinct, who, on Saturday night, lay in wait watching the place. Shortly after midnight the men stealthly approached in a row boat, landed, went into the house, and each taking up a bundle were making to the boat again. The officer now appeared on the scene, but only managed to secure one of the men. The prisoner was taken vesterday before Justice Kelly at the Yorkville Police Court and committed in default of $2,000 bail. The steam ambitance Governor Fenton, belonging to the Commissioners of Quarantine and intended for conveying the sick and dead, airtived from Philadelphia on Friday, where she had been sent for repairs. Notice to Mariners.

Quarantine.

JOHN SWINBUHN, Health Officer.

The sohr Maria A Hopkins rocently ran upon La Folle reefs. off the harbor of Aux Cayes, Haytl, and became a total wrock. The night was calm, but very dark. Two other vessels, the Cassard and the Progress, had previously been wrecked at the same dancerous spot. The prime cause of these disasters is the non-lighting of La Folle Lighthonse, which, it appears, is marked in French, English and, we believe American chart as being visible in a radius of twelve miles. The great danger vessels have to encounter is the strong current that sets in from the sooth and east, running upon the reefs at the rate of five to eight knots, varying according to the seasons of the year. Masters do not allow sufficient for this set in, and hence the danger. Seeling that the hight at the east end of Isis a Vache is not to be deneaded upon, but is rather a snare, it is thought proper to publish this notice, and to warn all shipmasters to avoid this dangerous place.
